If that be the correct theory this would have to be fired by means of a percussion cap and fuse, no evidences of which were found. The theory of the officials of the company last night was that torpedoes were exploded under the car. One could not have exerted such force as was manifest. It is, therefore, concluded from this fact, and the further fact that the car track at the point where the explosion occurred was blackened, that torpedoes were used. Detectives will be put to work on the case and the criminals discovered and punished, if possible.

d Main, when soon after the third the left after leaving the amphitheatre terrific concussion occurred. Around roof and connecting the roof and so of the open car are stained glass soms on all four sides of the ceiling.

Glasses Are Shattered.

Bixteen of these glasses were shattered and the debris and broken glass covered the floor and seats of the car. The traps in the floor of the car appeared to have been forced open, by the concussion. The names of the passengers on the car could not be learned, nor even definitely how many there were. At that hour, however, before the visitors to the Reservoir Park had begun to return, travel eastward is always light. Ong report was that there was but one man on the car. The fare registor indicated three ticket fares. The car was turned back and taken to the barn for repairs. Motorman Wallace, in charge of the car, escaped injury. The name of the conductor could not be ascertained last night.

Soon after these reports came, one from Barton Heights that Lakeside car No. 120 had been fired on at the north end of the First Street vladuet, the ball narrowly missing Motorman Mettersmith. The ball was fired from the darkness and is believed to have been fired from a ride. It struck a glass and smashed that and then buried itself in the wood. From the place where the bullet struck it was apparently aimed at the motorman's head, and well aimed, for it struck on a line with his head and dangerously near. Glasses Are Shattered.

with his head and unique with his head and unique arms no clue to the identity of the ambushed assassin.

While car No. 297 of the Clay Street line was running northward along Twenty-inith Street a few minutes after 10 o'clock, some one threw a rock into the car from the drakness and struck a young woman, a passenger on the car, on the ankle, inflicting a painful bruise. The stone is believed to have been thrown by a boy. Near the same point, and about the same hour, Motorman Lewis, in charge of a Clay Street car, was the target of a stone-thrower, but was not struck by the heavy missile, which was as large as a sam's double fists combined.

At the office of the company at the Reservoir last night reports were received that several stones were thrown at cars, but no damage done.

Preconcerted Effort:

Presoncerted Effort

Preconcerted Effort

The concurrence of these cases of violence at the same time in all parts of the city gave rise to the belief that a preconcerted effort was being made by parties unknown to intimidate persons who ride on the cars, and thereby detract from the revenues of the company, and thus promote the cause of the strikers. It is said that similar outbreaks of violence marked the closing days of the Norfolk car strike. Officials of the company are not at all alarmed by these attacks, and do not anticipate a repetition of them. The police will make a thorough investigation of the crimes and spare no effort to land the criminals—drag them into the glare of daylight and the ignominy of their despicable acts.

APPEAL OF STRIKERS

Some of Them Ask General Phillips to Aid Them to Return.

Aid Them to Return.

Several of the striking street car men yesterday admitted that so far as they were concerned, and they believed that the same was true of two-librds of the entire number of men new on strike, they were willing to go back to work with the company on the old terms existing at the time of the strike. Whether these four or five men were authorized to speak for any others or merely expressed an opinion as to their fellows, cannot be positively stated.

General A. L. Phillips is authority for the statement that four or five of the striking car men yesterday expressed a willingness to resume their old positions on the old terms, a nine-hour work day and the old scale of wages. He was driving down Seventh Street when the strikers approached him, and, after announcing that they were willing to go back on the old terms, asked General Phillips to make overtures to the management of the Passenger and Power Company looking to resumption of their positions. These men indicated that two-thirds of the men on strike were willing to go back to work on the old terms. Desirous of doing anything he could to effect a solution of the present difficulty, General Phillips went to General-Manager Huff and laid the situation as outlined to him before the general-manager. He expressed the hope that the company might see fit to reach an agreement by which peace might be restored and the men reinstated. Later estimates as to the cost of the military service in this city in connection with the strike indicate that the aggregate cost will slightly exceed the rough estimate printed in The Times-Dispatch yesterday. From returns received from the companies recently in the field here it appears that the pay-roll per company will average about $2.500 for the entire period. This figure does not include mileage. Twenty-three companies at $2.500 cach and including all officers, field and staff, will aggregate in cost about $57,500. To this must be added about $5,000 for mileage and then about $2.600 more for various other expenses, making the aggregate expense about $40.04. All the company reports have not yet been received and the Colonel, Adjutant and other assistants are at work and will be for a week or more at the armory.

this Year,
While the retail merchants have been in such "hard luck" on account of the strike, the wholesale men, whose trade is mainly out of town, have been enjoying unusual opportunity. This is, however, not due to the strike, Richmond is becoming more and more a center from which the retail merchants of this and other States get their supplies. The wholesale merchants have built up a line trade, and each; year it is increased. So far it has been better than ever before. The consensus of opinion among the Cary Street merchants is that business prospects are excellent, present business bestiev have known, and collections could not be better.

unaccustomed exertions. His life as a cardinal was one of uninterrupted serenity and he now practically bears the entire burden of the Church, and also the minute details of the preparations for the obsequies and the conclave. Notwithstanding this, he opened this morning's meeting of the congregation of carddinals. The number of these present today was augmented by the presence of two new arrivals, Cardinal Domenico

Cardinal Gluilo Boschi, Archbishop of

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONCLAVE.

At this morning's meeting, a committee, consisting of Cardinais Casail, Macchi and Della Volpe, was appointed to supervise all the arrangements in connection with the conclave.

Two doctors, Lappon and Felagallo, a surgeon, Professor Caigetti, and a druggilst, were applinted to attend the cardinals while they are shut up.

Finally, the cardinals appointed a committee to receive the case containing the papal treasure from the congregation of oriefs, whose work is suspended until a new Pope is elected, and to receive the papal scals from the apostolic chancelery, ROME, July 23.—The Commission of Cardinals intrusted with the arrangements for the conclave has presented a plan which involves an expenditure of $1,400, and assures that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the conclave July 31st. The apartment still occupied by Cardinal Rampolla will be divided into four rooms in order to accommodate four of the cardinals during the conclave.

Now, that the Pope's will has been opened, the work of removing the things in his apartment, which he bequeathed by the terms of the instruments, has begun. If the new Pontiff desires to occupy the same apartment, only the bed-room furniture will be chauged. Following an ancient custom, however, the new Pope would not take possession of the old apartment until several months after his election.
